CUSTOM MEN IN FATAL FIGHT

EL PASO, Texas, March 23.—Mounted Customs Inspectors Charles Logan and Charles Jones fought a duel in the dry bed of the Rio Grande river in this city last night, and both were killed. Their bodies were found this morning. It is supposed that each mistook the other for a smuggler.

At first it was believed that the two officers had been killed by smugglers, but this theory is discredited, as tracks around where the bodies lay all fit the shoes of the dead men. Three shots were heard by people living in the neighborhood at 9 o'clock last night. The pistol of one of the officers held two empty shells and that of the other one empty shell.

Logan was a son of the late Major T. H. Logan, United States army, and brother of the wife of Captain Frank D. Wyckham, Twelfth infantry, U. S. A., stationed at Governor's island, New York. Jones was a railroad man and lived at San Antonio and Houston, Texas, before entering the customs service.

LEAVES BAGGAGE AND DISAPPEARS

NEW YORK, March 23.—J. Noble of Los Angeles registered at the Broadway Central hotel here January 22d and arranged to take passage for Buenos Ayres in February. He carried a large sum of money. He left the hotel in February without taking all his baggage, saying he was going to Philadelphia to attend to some business matters before starting for South America. He did not appear at any of the places in Philadelphia to which he said he would go and has not been heard from since. His ticket for Buenos Ayres, for which he paid over $200, lies unused at the steamship office here. He said when leaving here that he would return to New York in two or three days. Inquiries have brought no trace of him. Before going he converted $8000 into English money in preparation for the South American trip.

Noble is a big man with a florid complexion. He lost his right arm when young. He told acquaintances here that he made his fortune as a sheep rancher in Nevada. About a year ago he sold his property there for $300,000 and went to Los Angeles.
